

MURRAY TORCETTI
LAWYERS

RIGHT LAWYER / RIGHT NOW

E L E M E N T
S H E E T

Attempting to Pervert Justice

Element sheets are one tool the Criminal Defence Team at Murray Torcetti Lawyers can use to test the charge against our clients. We break down the 'elements' of the offence and examine the evidence the police may and your instructions to test the strength of the charge. The "elements" are the puzzle pieces of a charge. If all elements can be proven beyond reasonable doubt and no defences are raised successfully at a trial, you could be found guilty of the charge.

Murray Torcetti Lawyers
4/13 King Street Caboolture
PH: 07 5414 4209
www.murraytorcetti.com.au

This is for information purposes only. This. Is. Not. Legal. Advice. SPEAK TO A LAWYER ABOUT YOUR UNIQUE SITUATION. Our disclaimer can be found here
- <https://murraytorcetti.com.au/disclaimer/>

THE ELEMENTS – Attempts to pervert the Course of Justice

NO.	Element	Notes on the Element	Comment / Evidence / Instructions
1	A person	See the Acts Interpretation Act “Meaning of commonly used words and expressions” – person includes an individual and a corporation. The way to cast doubt on this element would be to test the strength on the evidence you were the person who did the act.
2	Attempts to obstruct, prevent, pervert, or defeat	Action taken to prevent the institution of a prosecution is as much an interference with, or impairment of, the administration of justice as action taken to obstruct the conduct of a prosecution after it has been commenced. R v Rogerson (1992) 174 CLR 268
3	The course of justice	When the court's jurisdiction is asserted, the "course of justice" begins with the "administration of justice," however the offence can be committed before curial or tribunal proceedings commence and may have a tendency and be designed to obstruct or redirect proceedings that are likely, or even possible. Although police investigation into potential violations of the criminal law does not form part of the course of justice, an act calculated to mislead the police during investigations may amount to an attempt to pervert the course of justice. R v Rogerson (1992) 174 CLR 268 and R v Murphy (1985) 158 CLR 596.

Charge: Attempting to pervert justice

Source: Criminal Code QLD s 140

Election: Must be heard in the District Court

Penalty: 7 years Imprisonment

Being Charged with Attempting to Pervert Justice

Perverting the course of justice is a serious criminal offense that can have severe consequences for those found guilty. The charge of perverting the course of justice refers to any action or behaviour that interferes with the administration of justice, including but not limited to, tampering with evidence, lying to authorities, and influencing witnesses. It is important to understand the gravity of this charge and the potential consequences that may result from committing this offence, the Murray Torcetti Lawyers are here to guide you through your options and prepare your defence.

Notes on Sentencing

The courts take a firm approach to sentencing on this charge as it is seen to be a type of contempt of court and a message is sent to the community that this type of behaviour cannot be accepted. This message is communicated through heavy sentencing. A prison sentence is the most likely (but not the only) outcome for this charge.

As of 2023, the most common punishment is prison time, which happens in 59.7% of cases. The second most common punishment is "wholly suspended" jail time, which is given in 23.7% of cases with other orders such as Intensive Correction Orders and probation making up the balance.

What are some of the ways the lawyers can resist (fight) the charge?

When the lawyers first see the police materials, what are the first and most frequent options to test the strength of the charge the lawyer might consider?

- Any CCTV of the incident(s)
- Any additional witness statement of people who saw the incident(s)
- The "QPRIME" incident records that might give insights into what led to the police involvement

Possible defences to Attempting to Pervert Justice

All the defences are complicated in how the tests operate, how they have been applied, what needs to be raised and the various factual issues about force and proportion. Your lawyer will work out with you which defences may apply, to what extent and your prospects of successfully establishing them. Below are a few examples but are not an exhaustive list or in-depth discussion on how they operate.

Identification of the defendant

The police must be able to prove, beyond a reasonable doubt it was you who committed the act or acts that amount to the offence.

Compulsion – Duress s 31(1)(c) Criminal Code

In certain circumstances the law offers a defence if we are compelled to act to resist the violence of others. The Queensland Criminal Code calls this 'compulsion' and says, for present purposes, that a person is not criminally responsible for an act if that person does the act because it is reasonably necessary to resist a threat of actual and unlawful violence to themselves or property.

Like all defences. The law of defences is nuanced. Your lawyer will need to review the facts, law and your instructions to determine if the defence is open to you and form a strategy to wield the defence in a way that best works in your

Can the charge be 'Case Conferenced'?

For criminal charges in Queensland, your defence lawyer will review your charges, the possible evidence and your instructions to start negotiating the charges. The aim of case conferencing for defence lawyers is to place you in the most favourable position by resisting charges and facts that are not supported by evidence, law or contrary to your instructions.

What is Case Conferencing?

Case Conferencing – Disclosure

At the start of your case, you are provided the police version of the facts but not the evidence relied upon. Your lawyer will seek the disclosure of materials to clarify the facts further or determine the strength of the case against you.

Example: After an incident at the local pub, you have been charged with assault occasioning bodily harm. The police facts note the incident was recorded on CCTV and have sought the CCTV be disclosed to see if the footage supports the police version (or have left out important facts supporting your version) and medical records.

Case Conferencing – Facts

You might wish to plead guilty to the offences, but the police materials are different to your version of the events. Defence lawyers propose amendments, additions or removal of facts so the matters do not need to go to hearing. From a defence perspective, the purpose of conferencing on the facts is to remove irrelevant information or facts that may result in a higher sentence.

Example: CCTV records you striking a person several times. The police facts state it was "5 punches", but the footage is unclear. Through case conferencing the facts were amended to "struck the victim a number of times" or "the complainant was struck twice".

Case Conferencing – The Law

If the charges are not supported by the evidence the prosecution has, the lawyers suggest the charge be withdrawn or reduced to a lesser offence. If the law provides a mitigation or defence to your charges, your lawyer will conference with the prosecution to seek the charge be withdrawn.

Case Conferencing – Charges

Charges are not set in stone after the police issue with the notice to appear or release you on bail. Often the police will "over charge" and through the process of case conferencing more appropriate charges are agreed to.

Example: The police do a search of your property and locate your phone. After searching your phone a few text messages are found where you have offered to supply a few people (or even one person a number of times) the cannabis. The police charge you with trafficking in cannabis. After reviewing the evidence, the defence lawyers and prosecution agree that 3 charges of supply is far more appropriate.

What you can do to mitigate penalty if you are pleading guilty

Sometimes the decision to plead guilty is made for several reasons beyond actual guilt of the charge. It might be because the evidence is overwhelming, the risk of a trial is not worth the time and funds required or because pleading guilty is the fastest option. After consulting with the lawyer, if a plea is identified and we are instructed to list the matter for sentence there are numerous things you can do to assist the court to see beyond the charges and demonstrate remorse.

Attend Counselling

If you are going to enter a plea of guilty to the charge, attendance at a counselling program will assist the court to see you have a better understanding of your behaviour and demonstrated a willingness to change so it does not happen again.

Your Murray Torcetti Lawyer can suggest local programs you can take part in.

Demonstrate Employment

Demonstrating employment through a letter of employment assists the court to see you are productive and able to maintain responsibilities whilst being a member of the community. The letter could address your responsibilities, how long you have been employed and your attitude towards work.

Your Murray Torcetti Lawyer will review the letter of employment ahead of court to ensure all important points are addressed in the letter.

Letters of Reference

Character references assist the court by showing you have other parts to your character. You are more than a moment in time as read out by the prosecutor. You may be an active member of the community, provide support to a person in need or be able to demonstrate this was out of character.

Before the court date your Murray Torcetti Lawyer will review the references to ensure the letters achieve what is intended by the people who have taken the time and effort to assist you at your sentencing date.

Letters of Remorse

Remorse can be seen as a deep regret and repentance for a wrong committed. Letters of remorse can be tendered to the court at your sentencing to show the court you have insight into your behaviour and its impact on others.

Depending on the unique facts of your situation, your Murray Torcetti Lawyer will direct you if the insights are better as a letter to the court or another party as it would be inappropriate to provide any correspondence in some instances.

This is not legal advice. It boils down to: If you need legal advice see a lawyer. Dr Google isn't going to prescribe you meds if you are sick, Google LLB isn't going to give you advice or information specific to your situation. While care and attention to the above has been taken, it is never going to be accurate enough for your situation to be relied upon for legal advice and should be taken as general information only. If you need legal assistance. See a lawyer. We are lawyers, you can absolutely call us on 07 5414 4209. Criminal law is what we do.